

Abstract

Device and method for noise suppression in telephone equipment

Device and method for noise suppression in telephone equipment, in particular with hands-free equipment, having a level discriminator, an additional filter with a group propagation time of less than 2 ms being inserted into the transmission and receiving paths of the telephone equipment.

Fig. 3

